Coach Roberts to leave the bench

Gallatin County girls basketball coach Holly Roberts has announced she’s stepping away from basketball. She’ll continue to be a fifth grade teacher at the school.

“It was an extremely difficult decision because basketball has consumed my life for the last 28 years as a player and a coach,” said Roberts. “I’ve decided, however, that it’s more important to dedicate my time to my four-year old daughter at this time. She’s my first priority and I need to be with her as much as possible right now.”

Roberts, a Gallatin County native and a 1998 GCHS graduate, excelled on the basketball court as a player and a coach.

She holds the school’s scoring record of 2,652 points and played in college for the Thomas More College girls team, which won the NCAA Division Three national championship last week.

She and her teams have won many titles and awards during her nine years on the bench, which include eight winning seasons and a record of 155-94. She was selected as Eighth Region Coach of the Year in 2013 and her teams won All A Eighth Region titles three times. Under her tenure, the Lady Wildcats won three district championships and were an Eighth Region semi-finalist in 2013.

Her high school coach and mentor, former Gallatin County Superintendent of Schools Dot Perkins, has high praise for Roberts.

“I’ve been thrilled to follow her career both on the court and in the classroom,” said

Perkins. “I’m proud of Coach Roberts and everything she has accomplished. Holly has worked very hard and we are all appreciative of the sacrifices she has made and the positive influence she has had on many young lives.”

“This past year was a great one and the team exceeded my expectations,” said Coach Roberts. “We have a lot of talent coming back and I expect the girls to have a great season next year too. I want to thank my family and loyal assistants, Nate Dossett and Brenda Alexander, for their help and support. I also want to thank the school’s administrators, especially Dot Perkins, Jon Jones and Linda Edmondson, who took a chance on me. Thanks also to my players’ parents and mostly to my players, who gave me their all for the last nine years. There’s no greater honor than to be a coach. I’ve enjoyed my successes as a coach far more than as a player.”

Court of Appeals decision sides with KY libraries

Kentucky’s library supporters are breathing easier after a ruling last week by the state Court of Appeals against a lawsuit that claimed libraries formed by petition had been improperly raising property taxes for more than 30 years.

Without the ruling, most Kentucky libraries would have suffered a 60-percent budget cut that would have forced some to close and others to scale back services including Internet access and literacy programs.

It’s unclear how the suit would have affected the Gallatin County Public Library. Unlike the majority of libraries in the state, it was formed by a county election and not by petition. That election effort was led by the library’s founder, the late Charles G. Warnick. Since 1984, all libraries must be formed by election.

The Court of Appeals ruled 3-0 to overturn lower court rulings in Campbell and Kenton counties from 2013 that said any tax increase by libraries formed by petition since 1978 was illegal unless voters approved the increase in an election. Libraries, like other taxing districts, have been able to raise property taxes up to four-percent each year without getting approval from voters.

Without the Court of Appeals ruling, many libraries would have been forced to reset tax rates back to 1978 levels, removing more than half their current funding.

“Eighty library districts across Kentucky would be adversely affected if the decisions of the Campbell and Kenton Circuit Court were

Former shelter director faces theft charges

Grand Jury indicts Costello

Robin Costello, the former director of the Gallatin County Animal Shelter, has been indicted for inappropriately using at least $40,000 of the shelter’s funds.

Last September, Gallatin County Sheriff Josh Neale opened an investigation about how funds at the shelter were being used. The investigation began after Judge/executive Ken McFarland and his staff were unable to get receipts from Costello for some of the shelter’s expenses.

At the time, Costello told McFarland she was going to take a three-month leave of absence from the shelter for personal reasons but never provided the requested receipts. She hasn’t returned to the shelter, which is now being run by animal control officer Bobby Nunn. He was the first person to raise questions about the shelter’s finances.

“The shelter received $9,000 to operate for three months and it takes both Robin’s and my signatures to sign a check,” Nunn said last September. “I noticed she wrote $9,600 in checks to herself and her boyfriend and forged my name, so I reported it.”

After a lengthy investigation led by Deputy Sheriff Ed Caldwell, a Gallatin County Grand Jury returned numerous felony indictments against Costello last week. Among the charges were theft by failure to make required disposition of property over $10,000, 117 counts of second degree criminal possession of a forged instrument, theft of identity and theft by unlawfully taking under $500.

“Deputy Caldwell has spent hundreds of hours of his own time on this case and has done a great job,” said Sheriff Neale. “His hard work should be commended.”

The Gallatin County News has been unable to contact Costello but she told FOX 19 TV last September she has done nothing wrong and is proud of her work at the shelter. That has been her only public statement about the accusations.

Costello’s work at the shelter with homeless animals has been applauded by nearly everyone who worked with her including Judge/executive McFarland.

“Robin has done a good job and I want to give her every benefit of the doubt,” Judge Mc-

I’m working on my brain’s health

This and That

By Kelley Warnick
Editor

I received a news release last Friday from a man named Mark Underwood who’s concerned about what he calls my “Brain Health”.

I’m glad he wrote because that concerns me too. This morning I fed cat food to the dog, dog food to the fish and tried to start my truck with my motorcycle key. There’s no telling what my brain was thinking.

Mark says for a high quality life there are several steps I need to take.

First, if I want to make sure the dog and cat start the day with the right food, I need to stimulate my brain.

That sounded like a good idea. Saturday, I decided to stimulate my brain with a little “March Madness” on the TV. Then, I got down to some real stimulation with a plate of tacos and some tasty Mexican beer. My brain was so stimulated I think I heard it say “thank you” when I turned out the lights at the end of the day.

Mark also thinks my brain would like it if I “Go Wild” once in a while.

I’m not so sure he’s right about that. I remember when my friend Billy Goatbelly went wild at Daytona Beach one Spring Break. The next thing he knew he was in the city jail wondering who had stolen his pants.

Mark wants me to schedule things to make my brain happy. For instance, his friend, Susan, stays content by scheduling a break from 2 p.m. to 3 p.m. every day so she can do a crossword puzzle.

I hope Susan is better with puzzles than I am. The last crossword puzzle I did came from the New York Times, Sunday newspaper. I started it in 1996 and finished it four years later. My brain still cringes when it thinks about that ordeal but at least I had an excuse to buy a new dictionary.

Mark says my brain will work a whole lot better if I spend a significant amount of time enjoying natural beauty and pleasant scenery. He says if I do that, I’ll have less stress and lower blood pressure.

That seemed like a good idea too until I asked my boss if I could move my office to Hawaii to improve my brain’s health. When she said “Sure as long as you swim there,” I knew I should make other plans.

I apparently can add five years to my life if I make my brain happier by ramping up my social life.

Mark doesn’t give instructions on how to do that but I’ve put in applications to American Idol, Survivor and Dancing with the Stars in hopes of finding hip new friends to help me move my social life to the next level.

In closing, Mark recommends I take more time off work and maintain a positive attitude. He also says I should make sure I get plenty of good food and lots of sleep.

If he’s right, my brain must be in excellent condition already. I’ve excelled at eating and sleeping for as long as I can remember.

Preparing for the next flood in Gallatin Co.

Dear Editor:

My last letter to The Gallatin County News generated many questions regarding flood zone issues. Many of those who inquired had no idea that Gallatin County had strict FEMA/NFIP floodplain ordinances.

I own a farm on the Ohio River with a large portion in the flood zone. My purpose is to alert my Ohio River friends and neighbors to the physical and financial dangers that living and owning property in and near to the flood zone represents.

The most frequent questions were:

Why does the Ohio River flood, and can the major floods be predicted?

The Ohio River drains an area stretching almost 1,000 miles from Pittsburgh, PA to Cairo, IL where it joins the Mississippi River. It has just over 200,000 square miles of watershed, north to south from New York to Alabama, and east to west from Pennsylvania to Illinois.

Short term flood prediction based on actual and forecast rainfall is now available at: <http://tinyurl.com/KYNOOA>.

For those who would be stranded by rising waters, it is important to monitor the predicted river level and evacuate well in advance. More than half the deaths during floods are from desperate residents who waited too late, driving over flooded bridges.

Don't the Ohio River dams protect us from flooding?

The Ohio River has been extensively modified to support barge navigation. Due to the locks and dams, the river is actually a staircase of long lakes. During flood events the locks and gates are opened and the natural wild river profile returns. The dams don't provide any flood control.

Why were zoning regulations and flood plain ordinances enacted?

The National Flood Insurance Act of 1968 created the National Flood Insurance Program (NFIP). It was put in place to encourage communities to implement flood-resistant measures in areas identified as floodplains.

Why does Gallatin County need a flood plan?

Gallatin County is a high-risk community with dangerous flood zones situated along the Ohio River. We are well overdue for a major flood like 1964 or 1997.

How can I tell if I'm in the flood zone?

Flood maps are available for free at hmssc.fema.gov/portal.

Maps can be searched by zip code and you can zoom in to your desired location.

Will I be able to rebuild my home after a flood?

I've heard several different answers to this question but if you're currently in a FEMA designated Floodway you will not be able to rebuild.

What happens if Gallatin County is suspended from the NFIP for not enforcing ordinance specifications?

Worst case, flood insurance will be canceled, and we may not be able to get flood insurance in the future.

Mortgage loans may be foreclosed by the lenders as they would have no protection for their loans.

If you own your house outright, the resale value will be far less, as lenders are prohibited from lending on flood zone property without flood insurance.

Summary

I'd like to form a Gallatin County flood-planning group with goals of:

- Reducing loss of lives of county residents and EMS personnel
- Minimizing economic impact of floods on property owners and businesses
- Reducing flood insurance rates/maximizing property values
- Seeking fair property tax values for flood zone homes

Please, if you live in, or have loved ones who live in the flood zone, create your own flood evacuation plan.

Feel free to contact me if you have any other questions, or would like to be part of a flood-planning group.

Kentucky Commentary

Economic award for Bluegrass is deceptive

Gov. Steve Beshear and Frankfort's economic-development leaders are celebrating a recent award by Site Selection magazine for being the state with the "most new projects per capita".

Any economic progress is commendable—especially considering Kentucky has myriad business-unfriendly policies.

But is this award a reason to break out the bubbly?

While the Site Selection article paints a nice picture of snappy economic activity, other reputable sources claim otherwise:

- Business Insider magazine ranks Kentucky's economy No. 44 out of 50.

- Forbes ranks Kentucky as No. 44 out of 50 in its ranking of "The Best and Worst States for the New Economy" with a score of 48.4 compared to top-ranked Massachusetts' 94.7 ranking.

- CNBC ranks Kentucky No. 36 in its state business rankings, much lower than Tennessee to the South (No. 13) and Indiana to the North (No. 18).

- The Bureau of Economic Analysis reports that while growth occurred in 49 states in 2013, Kentucky's dismal 1.6 percent gross domestic product (GDP) was below the national average.

- Art Laffer, a respected economic adviser to President Reagan, ranked Kentucky No. 39 in his "2014 Economic Outlook Rankings". Only Illinois was ranked lower among Kentucky's neighboring states.

We know much more about the criteria that these credible sources use than we do about the Site Selection rankings.

Forbes' "Best States for Business and Careers" index, for instance, reveals not only an economic ranking of No. 33 for Kentucky but also how the state placed in various categories.

Kentucky's overall No. 33 ranking was arrived at by combining its ratings in Business Costs (No. 14), Labor Supply (No. 46), Regulatory Environment (No. 24), Growth Prospects (No. 29), and "Quality of Life" (No. 34) classifications.

Nevertheless, a news release from the governor's office simply states that projects qualifying Kentucky for its Site Selection award had to meet one of three criteria: "involve a capital investment for at least $1 million, create 50 or more jobs or add at least 20,000 square feet of new floor space."

We don't know how many projects fit into these categories or how meaningful they are to the commonwealth's economy. As Site Selection's editor-in-chief admitted to the Mackinac Center for Public Policy, his publication's rankings are still "a function of what states report to us."

It's like not fully understanding why the University of Kentucky men's basketball team is ranked No. 1 in the nation.

Their ranking isn't a result of what they pick and choose to report. Their performance has been there for the world to see. And what a season it's been.

There's also plenty to crow about when it comes to potential economic growth in Kentucky.

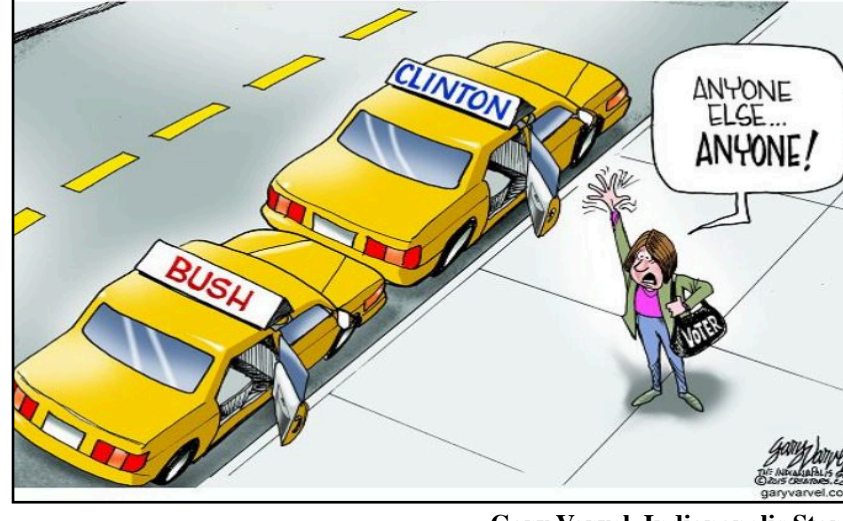

Warren County, for example, passed the nation's first local right-to-work ordinance less than 90 days ago. Among the benefits: 27 new prospects representing 3,667 jobs and $324 million of new investment—numbers that increase almost daily—have expressed interest in coming to south-central Kentucky.

If even some of those prospects end up coming to Warren County, it will rival the actual impact of the 32 new manufacturing-related projects and the 2,213 announced by the entire commonwealth for all of 2014.

"It's clear the county's right-to-work designation is making a difference," said Bowling Green Area Chamber of Commerce CEO Ron Bunch.

Clear as bubbly.

Costello

After allegations against Costello surfaced, many people who had volunteered at the shelter and other animal rights advocates came to her defense and argued she was being mistreated. One animal rights group made it an issue in the judge/executive's race last fall and urged voters not to support McFarland's re-election bid because of his treatment of Costello.

Her first court appearance is scheduled for April 13, when she'll be arraigned.

Libraries

Continued from page 1 allowed to stand," the Court of Appeals wrote. "For more than 30 years without protest or challenge, the library districts created by petition have acted in good faith and conducted their affairs in accordance with the direction of the Executive Branch, which was charged by law to implement the applicable statutes in question."

American Library Association President Courtney Young and Public Library Association President Larry

Neal praised the court for reversing rulings they said would have blocked library access to 83 percent of Kentucky residents.

"Kentuckians checked out more than 30 million items from the state's 119 public library systems last year," Young and Neal said in a news release. "This is the highest usage rate ever recorded and is a two percent increase from the previous year. Libraries are vital to democracy in the great state of Kentucky and everywhere."

Thomas More Saints win national title with Hignite

Mark Gray Sports Reporter
Mikkah Hignite, former Gallatin County star player, is now a national champion.

During her time playing for the Lady Cats, Hignite helped lead the team to its first 31st District title in school history as well as a Final Four berth in the All A Classic in 2013.

She is now a sophomore guard on the Thomas More College women's team that won the Division III National Championship over the weekend.

In the championship game, the Thomas More Saints completed an undefeated season by beating previously unbeaten George Fox University, 83-63, in Grand Rapids, Michigan.

Thomas More (33-0) was led by Sydney Moss, who recorded her first career triple double with 19 points, 16 rebounds and 11 assists in the championship victory.

Sports in Kentucky . . . by Bob Watkins

You may have to fight a battle more than once to win. — Margaret Thatcher

So it's, Old Kentucky Home brethren rooting for two Sweet 16 entries headed north.

Before Thursday, Kentucky's unbeatens will be reminded five springtimes ago Bob Huggins' underdog West Virginia outflanked (and schooled) the Wildcats and stole their Final Four berth. This week Big Blue Nation rejoins the battle at Cleveland.

Before Friday, Louisville will be reminded of a score to settle with North Carolina State. A month ago the Wolfpack exacted a 74-65 whuppin' on the Rick Pitinos at Yum Center. This time, a neutral battle field at Syracuse.

Button up, boys and girls, break out the battle flags, blow the trumpets and set upon their skirmish lines fiercely. Charge into them with Blue/Red state vengeance and apply a new exclamation mark on our Kentucky birth right claim anew, we are supreme at something.

Only a full-on charge into Yankees fortifications at Syracuse and in Cleveland will stir our hearts (and sell some new tee-shirts). Old scores will be settled, then push Kentucky's rally flags through to where they belong, land of Elite Eight (for now).

Meanwhile, let's all calm down, have lunch and consort over did you see that! moments from another NCAA weekend.

✓Roxanne Chalifoux. Villanova's brave and teary piccolo player.

✓West Virginia coach Bob Huggins' idea of living in the moment after his team sent Maryland home on Sunday was, "John (Calipari) has a day and a half on us (to prepare for Thursday night)."

✓ Thank you card, John Calipari to Cincinnati coach Larry Davis. The Bearcats rough-house 40 (minutes) gave Kentucky a game film of what is sure to come from Mountaineers at Cleveland.

✓ Cincinnati forward Octavious Ellis got himself ejected from the Bearcats' game against Purdue, then tried thug ball against Kentucky. A storm of ugly and racist tweets followed. But no public criticism for Cincinnati's coach Larry Davis for not controlling his player?

✓ Louisville. Chris Who? Since Quinton Snyder showed up, Terry Rozier has never been better. Helping free up Rozier's game (25 points, seven assists and five rebounds against Northern Iowa), Snyder had 10 points and one turnover in 36 minutes.

✓ Much praise was spent on R.J. Hunter at Georgia State, Melo Trimbo at Maryland and others. Best penetrator/pull-up guard in the field of 68, Rozier at Louisville.

✓ Seth Tuttle, Northern Iowa. Quintessential NBA-type power forward at 6-8, 240. An alpha-dog leader, where does Tuttle figure in the NBA June draft? Nowhere, in the first round 30, according to ESPN.com.

✓ NBA mock draft — Why would Mark Cuban spend a 23rd pick for Dallas Mavericks on Kentucky's Dakari Johnson when Seth Tuttle's name is on the board?

✓ Lost in shadow of R.J. Hunter at Georgia State ... whatever happened to Ryan Harrow (ex-Kentucky) and Kevin Ware (ex-Louisville)?

✓For 22 years Kansas

This week we have some wonderful programs attended and enjoyed, wonderful moments with loved ones, proud grandparents, worthy causes supported, local winners of the Swiss Idol Finals, joyous news of an expected new baby, and a friend recovering from surgery. No birthdays this week.

•Pam Fornash, her daughter, Shaina, and grandson, Keaden, attended the Disney on Ice show on Friday, March 13, with the kindergarten class of Owen County. The ladies were driving and were following the school bus which was loaded with the children. However, just before they arrived they found they'd been following the wrong bus! It all turned out well in the end, and they had a great time. Pam said the performance was wonderful, and the children and parents really enjoyed it. Keaden said his favorite was the Lion King.

•Tracy and Aaron Cayton and sons, D.J. and Austin, met up with Adam and Bridget Perry and children, Abby, Lexie, Madison, and Brianna on Sunday for dinner at Texas Roadhouse. Tracy said it was a beautiful day to get out and about, and they all thoroughly enjoyed it.

•Mary Jane Day has been a busy lady this past week! On Wednesday, she met her sister, Betty Jean Valentino, and their close friend, Janie Stormer, for lunch at Applebee's in Fairfield, Ohio. They had a great time just catching up with one another, and enjoyed a good meal. Thursday evening found Mary Jane at the Historical Society to attend the program called "The Unsolved Mystery of Hub Ferguson", presented by freshmen Jared Courtney, Joey Dunavent, Kyley Terrell, and David Griffey from the Gallatin County High School. Mary Jane said the boys did a wonderful job with their research, and the program was both interesting and informative, with a lot of audience participation and discussion.

•Friday night, Mary Jane and Mayme Walters went to the Gallatin County High School for the performance of "Inherit The Wind", and were very impressed with the talent shown by the young actors. The young men who portrayed the lawyers were outstanding, and with so many lines to memorize, along with their acting, they really gave a great performance. Mary Jane said that all the students involved did an excellent job. Saturday afternoon, she went to Boone County to watch her grandson, Blayne Day, play baseball. Blayne is one of four 8th graders that made the Conner Freshman baseball team, and Mary Jane and Bob are very proud of him. Unfortunately, they lost the game, but the season is young and you can't win them all. (Except for UK).

Saturday night, Mary Jane, Barb Finrock, and Melanie Stewart went to Vevay for the Swiss Idol Finals. There were two local entries, Jim Kinman and Clay Warnick, and they both won! It was an enjoyable program and Gallatin County was well represented, not just on stage, but in the audience as well. CONGRATULATIONS TO JIM AND CLAY!

•Sunday morning after Mass, Vicki & Ernie Carrier treated Mary Jane to breakfast at Sunset Grill. They were joined by Jim Kluemper, Charlotte & Bud McGuire, and Sherry & Randy Ferguson. The food was great and the conversation was entertaining to say the least. Mary Jane felt she had to work off that hearty breakfast, so she spent Sunday afternoon in the yard cleaning flower beds. She said she had a very entertaining weekend and discovered that there is a great deal of talent in our area and we don't have to go far to find it!

•Bob Weldon wants to thank all who attended the presentation on the 1954 murder of Sheriff Hub Ferguson at The Gallatin County Historical Society last Thursday. The Program was given by the four STLP students from Gallatin

Woods welcome baby boy

Clint and Alicia Woods of New Castle have announced the birth of a son.

Jesse Cooper Woods was born December 19, 2014, at Baptist East Hospital in Louisville.

County High School. They shared their documentary film on the event. ( This can be seen on the Gallatin County High School web site - click STLP). It was a fascinating evening with thought provoking discussion. The students did an outstanding job in front of a full house! Also, thanks go to Rebecca Riesenbergh who coordinated the event.

•Bob and Alex Weldon attended the Gallatin County High School performance of " Inherit the Wind" on Saturday night and thoroughly enjoyed the performance. On Sunday evening, Barbara Kinman stopped by to visit Bob and Alex Weldon at Seven Pines. Bob said it was fun to catch up!

•Jennifer Crabtree and Tiffany Lionberger went to Carrollton yesterday for a girls day out. They went to Traderbakers and VF outlet and then enjoyed Chinese food for lunch. Sunday found Jennifer and her sons, Nick and Blake, at Glencoe Church of Christ with Jennifer's mother, Cindy Norris, and grandfather, Richard Pat Maiden. Jennifer said the service was just great and they all really enjoyed it.

•Cindy Norris went fishing with her sister, Candy Osborne, on Saturday. Their catches were small, but were enough to get that fishing fever going.

•Loretta and Dennis Dover's granddaughters, Rachel and Charlotte, were very excited to learn that they had sold enough Girl Scout cookies to visit COSI (The Center for Science and Industry in Columbus) later next month. Rachel also won a "mathematician award" at school for excellence in math. The Dovers are very proud grandparents.

Jon, Beka, Peyton and Brody visited Dennis and Loretta on Saturday to enjoy the gorgeous weather. They had a bacon and blueberry pancake breakfast and then everyone enjoyed going outside off and on for the rest of the day. Brody, of course, went straight to the pond to aggravate the tadpoles, and caught a salamander that became his pet for a short while. Then the cornhole boards came out and they played until dusk, and all enjoyed grilled hamburgers and hot dogs for dinner. It was a typical spring Saturday at the Dover home and very welcome after all the snow. Loretta feels that they are blessed!

•On Friday, March 20, Yolanda Gould volunteered as a fairy godmother for Cinderella's Closet of Northern Kentucky. This allowed her to help girls find the dress of their dreams for prom this year. This organization is very close to her heart and she has organized dress donation drives this year, donating approximately 150 dresses. Cinderella's Closet of Northern Kentucky serves approximately 400 girls a year in the tristate area. The girls receive a dress, shoes, jewelry, and other items to ensure them a wonderful prom. It is a ministry started by Erin Peterson at Immanuel United Methodist Church and has grown into a nationwide ministry. Visit cinderellasclosetnky.org to see how you might assist this most worthy organization.

On Saturday, March 21, Yolanda Gould and Grace Jones had a traveling pageant day in support of friends and causes they love! They first visited the Carroll County Relay for Life Pageants as Yolanda was crowning the new survivor winner this year. Then they traveled to Frankfort where Yolanda's pageant mentee, Hannah Robb of Louisville, won the title of Miss Frankfort Outstanding Teen, and Hannah will compete at Miss Kentucky's Outstanding Teen this year. It was a very fun and exciting day for Yolanda and her travel buddy, Grace.

•On Sunday, March 22, Yolanda Gould assisted with the Miss Kentucky Plus America Bootcamp, preparing women who will be competing in this year's pageant to be held in Florence KY during the month of May.

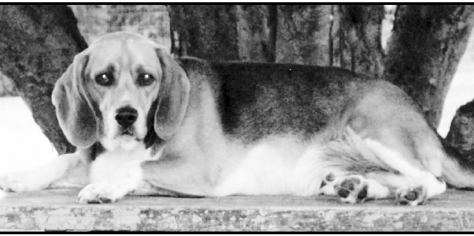

•Debbie Human is a former Gallatin County resident who now lives in Turner's Station. She and her husband, James, are very proud of their grandchildren, three of whom live in Gallatin County. Seven year-old Jessie Heming is playing soccer for the first time this year and loves riding horses. Savannah Wilkymack is in high school, loves FFA and has shown horses, one of them placing third. Deandria Thompson is in middle school and is a cheerleader. The rest of the grandkids are just great - there are a total of 15, all involved in sports, horses, or dance. Debbie and James have a small farm with a garden, and feel that every day is an adventure and a blessing.

•Ron and Diane Young have been their usual busy selves. They joined their church group on March 14 for lunch at "Our Best" restaurant in Smithfield, and Diane reports that they enjoyed some extremely tasty chicken livers. Diane met her friend, Resa, for lunch at Chuy's on the 17th, and they did a lot of catching up, then on the 19th she spent the night with her mother and brother in order to take him to the hospital for an angiogram. On Saturday the 21st, Diane's son, Ron and his wife, Brittany, had a gender-reveal party, and everyone was pleased to learn that the new baby will be another boy, making five grandsons and 2 granddaughters for the Youngs. On Sunday, daughter-in-law Michelle, had a get-together 31 party with snacks, and everyone had a great time. After the party, Michelle and Lila went home with Diane, and Ron fixed supper. Diane admits that she and her good friend, Lori, have, of course, made time to play a few games of cards.

•Shirley Ann Howell had open heart surgery in December, has been through rehab and visited with friends during recovery. I am happy to report that Shirley Ann is now home and doing well. She tells me she's a bit weak, but is working on improving her walking, feeling pretty good and very glad to be home.

THANK YOU! Chuckie is home!

I want to thank everyone for their help and support in searching for my dog, Chuckie.

I especially want to thank John Renschler for all his help. Without him, we would never have been able to catch Chuckie. Also, thanks to the Carroll County Animal Support group.

Your thoughtfulness and kindness will never be forgotten. May all your lives be blessed.

Thank you!

Card of Thanks—Riddle

To our family and friends, we want to express our sincere thanks and appreciation for all you did for us at the passing of our beloved mother, daughter and sister, Debbie Riddle.

To those who brought food, offered a hug, sent flowers, called, or sent cards and donations in her memory, we thank you .

To the guys at the funeral home, we know you worked hard and, as always, did a fine job.

“Thank you” sounds so small but means so much!

Thanks to Josh Neale and Carolyn Colegate for their words of comfort. We appreciated all everyone did.

Warsaw Christian - My Church!

Why I Attend WCC:

As my family turned to leave the burial of my mother, Marie Osborne Poland, my father Arthur Poland, stumbled over a few words to say he probably would never be back at Warsaw Christian Church. Those words didn't hold true as my husband Garry and I picked him up regularly each Sunday until he passed.

I have never considered not attending Warsaw Christian Church. There is comfort in having a favorite seat, knowing who sits nearby, in handshakes, kind words, and sometimes a hug. It is home. The living God abides within and outside of this building and many people appreciate the church family.

I am close to the kind and lovely people who attend, and thank God for the love and kindness that our church family continuously shares. If you don't have a church home, we hope you will visit with us one Sunday soon.

Planting by the Signs

by Phil Case

Ah, Spring is finally officially here having begun just two days ago and it's time to start gardening — if you haven't already.

I've missed you since we parted in the fall after 2014 was done but now it's time to head into 2015's season and I hope you plan to do your planting, when at all possible, according to the phases of the moon and signs of the zodiac.

No matter if your "garden" is a half acre or a tomato plant in a pot on the deck, it can benefit from planting by the phases and signs. Coupled with good gardening practices, phases and signs will help it produce more abundantly and longer.

I will endeavor to be right here most every Wednesday through the year from planting through harvest. And, as many of you do, if you need to contact me with specific questions then how to do that is below.

The moon

On the same day Spring began, which was last Friday at 6:45 p.m., the moon moved from the dark to light phase, that occurring some 13 hours earlier at 5:36 a.m. Until the full moon on at 8:06 a.m. April 4, the light moon will rule.

During this period plant only those veggies that produce above the ground and if you are planting seeds to grow for transplants, those should be for above-ground producers, too — like tomatoes.

Remember, ideally we do it all in the right phase and sign — seed, pot and transplant — above-ground producers in the light moon and below-ground ones in the dark phase hopefully when fertile signs are in force but definitely not when killing signs rule.

And with that, if you're doing container gardening like the plant in the pot, then there is absolutely no reason for you not to get it right!

The signs

With the moon in the light phase for above-ground planting, what's left of today is ruled by Gemini (the arms); the very fertile sign Cancer (the breast) is in force Thursday thru Saturday; the killing sign Leo (the heart) is up for Sunday and Monday; and flowering signs are on tap for March 31-April 4 with Virgo (the breast) up for the first three of those days and Libra (the reins) April 3-4.

My cautions are:

•Just because this is

Gemini, a bean day, don't plant any beans since the danger of frost is with us for at least another six weeks. You can, however, put in some peas if you like.

•Don't plow or break ground now unless the soil is dry. Use the clod test: If a handful of dirt will compress into a mud clod, then it's too wet to plow. If, however, the handful when squeezed crumbles, then it's perfect.

News from the 4-H Desk

by Lora Stewart

4-H County Speech and Demonstration Contest

The annual County Speech and Demonstration Contest will be held on Tuesday, March 31st at 6:00 p.m. at the Gallatin County Extension Office. If you are planning on going to camp, this is a great opportunity to try and get half off of your camp costs. If you win at the county level and participate in the district level, then you will get half off of camp. Please RSVP by Friday, March 27th if you plan to attend.

4-H Camp – The Few, The Proud, The 4-Her

Packets are ready! This year we are camping Monday, June 22nd – Friday, June 26th. This is a great opportunity to meet people from other counties, learn new hobbies and have lots of fun! Some of the classes that you can choose from include: Swimming, canoeing, fishing, rifles, archery, recreation, arts and crafts, low ropes, and nature. And don't forget Sally Down the Alley every night! This year there will be an early bird cost of $180, if all the paperwork is filled out and paid in full by April 30th. After April 30th, the cost increases to $200.00. This includes materials for classes, all of your meals, snacks, assemblies, transportation, and of course a t-shirt! Stop by the extension office or call 567-5481 to get a packet.

4-H Junk in the Trunk Yard Sale

With the rising cost of camp, leadership conferences, and other 4-H trips, the 4-H council voted to have a fundraiser to help offset costs.

We are having a yard sale/craft sale on Saturday, April 4th starting at 7:00 a.m. at the Gallatin County Extension Office.

The cost is $20.00 to reserve a spot. There will also be a concession stand and a bake sale. Any 4-H member who would like to participate in this fundraiser, please call the office. I am looking for 4-H members to help bake cookies and cupcakes on Friday, April 3rd after school and to help on Saturday during the yard/craft sale.

Chances improve for white bass fishing this spring

Soon, anglers can alleviate weather doldrums by hitting the headwaters of Nolin River Lake, Taylorsville Lake and Herrington Lake to catch marauding white bass as they make their annual spring spawning runs.

They don't have to own a boat to enjoy fishing as good as any in Kentucky.

"In spring, look for that warm rain," said Mike Hardin, assistant director of fisheries for the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources. "The river temperatures can increase dramatically from warm rains. They warm up eight degrees or more quickly. The headwaters are often much warmer than the main lake."

The U.S. Geological Survey streamflow gauges for Kentucky streams tell the story of how much water is coming into a lake. When you click on a gauge for a particular site on a stream, a box at the top of the page allows users to select parameters to display such as flow rate in cubic feet per second (cfs), gauge height and water temperature. You may access this important information at www.waterdata.us.gov.

"I try and look at the gauges for surrounding streams to estimate what the water temperature is in the river above a lake," Hardin said. "When the water temperature gets near 50, white bass move upstream. Soon after that comes the peak of the run."

White bass aggressively strike practically anything that flashes silver in the water or resembles a shad or other baitfish. "You can drop down to about any flashy lure and cast it out, reel it in and catch white bass in spring," said Jeff Ross, assistant director of fisheries for Kentucky Fish and Wildlife. "They are a great fish for families, kids and beginners because they strike so aggressively."

Hardin said an angler can carry all they need for white bass in a shirt pocket. Buy a couple of bags of 3-inch white or chartreuse curly-tailed grubs along with some 1/8th-ounce leadheads and go.

Golden eagle tracked in Bullitt and Nelson

Researchers recently captured a golden eagle in the Bernheim Forest in Bullitt and Nelson counties and fitted it with a tracking device as part of an ongoing research project. Golden eagles are seldom seen in Kentucky.

"Bernheim Forest has a few golden eagles that come back every winter and is one of the more reliable places in the state to see golden eagles," said Kate Heyden, avian biologist for the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources.

"They don't nest in Kentucky, but spend winters here. Golden eagles that winter here probably nest in Canada."

Andrew Berry, manager of Bernheim Forest, explained the reason the birds find the area to their liking.

"I think the golden eagles are attracted to the remote forested knobs of Bernheim Forest," he said. "This bird seems to spend a lot of time hunting field edges on these knobs."

The researchers, including staff members of Bernheim Forest and Kentucky Fish and Wildlife, captured the adult male bird Feb. 10.

Using a road-killed deer carcass as bait, the crew sat in a blind and fired a net over the golden eagle to capture it without harm.

The project was funded by Bernheim Forest and the Beckham Bird Club in Louisville.

"We banded, measured, sexed and aged the bird and put a custom-fitted solar powered satellite transmitter on its back that won't interfere with flying, hunting or breeding," Heyden said. "We hope to track this bird for three to five years."

The installation of the tracking device is part of a larger study of eagles in the Appalachian Mountain region.

Kentucky Fish and Wildlife began surveying for golden eagles in Kentucky in 2012.

"There are more golden eagles in Kentucky than we thought," Heyden said. "This is the first one we've captured. This golden eagle is extremely healthy and one of the largest I've held, weighing 10 1/2 pounds."

Golden eagles typically show up in Kentucky around Thanksgiving and stay until mid-March.

The recent warm winds propelled the eagle to begin migrating north March 12; by the next day, it was already near Bloomington, Indiana. As of March 16, the bird had already flown north 275 miles, along the Indiana - Illinois border just south of Chicago.

"The neat thing is we don't know where it is going to go," Heyden said. "We would like to see where it goes to nest. We expect this bird to migrate back to Canada."

Those interested in following the movements of this golden eagle may visit the golden eagle page on the Bernheim Forest website at <http://bernheim.org/golden-eagle/>.
